SCORE OF CONTEST, 1 TO 0

BY DENMAN THOMPSON.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—That wilful minx, Dame Fortune, after favoring C. Calvin Griffith's earnest athletes throughout the course of a tempestuous ten and two-thirds innings of pastime at Shibe Park today, suddenly turned the icy shoulder on them and bestowed her favors on the other fellows, with the result that the Mackmen eased over their second straight victory of the series by the narrowest possible margin, 1 to 0. It was by long odds the tenacious and most nerve-racking affair the Nationals have mixed in this season, and but for the fickleness of her royal highness, Fate, the two teams might have been out there battling until the shades of night called a halt.

Two of Mack's men had been stowed away in the eleventh inning when George Burns, who was not good enough for the Tigers, but has been prominently concerned in nearly every victory hunk up by the "A's" to date, smashed a liner off Johnson's glove that reached Morgan too late for play at first. George got to second on a passed ball that savored strongly of a wild pitch, and then came feinting Larry Gardner, another cast-off. Crafty Griffith thought to outsmart the tall tutor by ordering Walter to walk the former Red Sox star into the game on the fresh bush, Claude Davidson.

This former teammate of Billy Murray at Brown University, who was peering service in only his second major league game, and wouldn't have been there, then, except that Maurice Shannons' hands are skinned up, proceeded to waltz the second ball pitched to him a minute toward the field. It went past Shanks at third like a shot, but Lavan, by a supreme effort, managed to spear it back into the infield and a great throw to first. The peg was a little wild, however, and Judge had to take a step to touch the sack. Umpire Connolly ruled Joe's tribby tagged the hassock a fraction of a second too late, so Davidson was second, at the time the ball was hit, set all for the plate and never stopped. Judge looked for the runner to be out, but play and after losing this valuable, though short, period of time, fired the ball home to burning Burns, who slid over the pan with the only tally of the contest and brought joy to the hearts of the fans, who were watching a game which had paid real money at the gate to witness the battle. Griffith figured that by eliminating Burns, he would have a green youngster like Davidson, but the latter was too good for the Nationals, and a decidedly hefty wallop and blooze went the ball game.

Perry Pitches Effectively.

In justice to Scott Perry, the youthful hurler who subjugated the Griffmen on the occasion of his only other appearance against the Nationals, it should be set forth that he pitched a grand game, and was justly entitled to victory within a regulation nine innings. Three hits was the sum total of the Nationals' offensive efforts, and only two of the Griff men were on base in the course of the game. In the opening round attained the midway cushion, when the Nationals' pitcher, Scott Perry, pitched a perfect throw to catch Zeb Stealing. Shanks immediately thereafter drew the only other runner on base, but both were left stranded when Burns knocked down Judge's hopper.

Aside from these two only three Griff men got on the sacks. Frank Schulte, who played in left because Shanks was out, pitched for the Nationals, and Eddie Foster, who pitched for the Nationals, made one of these in the fifth and reached second base on a bunt. Shanks fanned when Harper surprised himself by dropping a single in right. Burns again pitched for the Nationals, and was hit by Kopp's single after Jameson had forced Perry. James tried to make third and was out, but Schulte's peg to right, and Dugan's double in the fifth was unsupported, but in the sixth the Mackmen got stranded, single by Burns, no runner on base, and Harper's first base on balls loading the sacks with no one out.

Johnson Relieves Harper.

Although Griffith had vowed to leave Dugan in there regardless of consequences he reconsidered his threat and bled him for the Nationals, by putting him in the bullpen with Du Mont. Walter was in an unenviable position, with the bases choked, no out yet recorded and Burns and Gardner due to hit. All the odds pointed to the Mackmen obtaining at least one run, but under the circumstances, the Nationals' pitcher, Scott Perry, pitched a perfect throw to catch Zeb Stealing. Shanks immediately thereafter drew the only other runner on base, but both were left stranded when Burns knocked down Judge's hopper.

GRIFFITH'S TEAM COMES HOME
TUESDAY FOR THREE-WEEK STAY
Nineteen Games Are Scheduled at Georgia
Avenue Grounds Before Club Starts on Another Trip—Gossip of Players.

BY DENMAN THOMPSON.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 4.—Following an exhibition contest with Jack Dunn's entry in the new International League at Baltimore tomorrow, and a final contest with the Mackmen in Philadelphia Monday, the Griffmen will return to Washington for a sojourn on their own lot that will last from Tuesday, May 7, until Tuesday, May 28, three weeks and one day, in which, according to the schedule, nineteen games will be played, Boston being the first team to come, making its initial appearance of the season at the Georgia avenue grounds for three games and being followed by the Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit clubs, in the order named, four contests being booked with each of the western contingent. Then after a return engagement of four games at Boston, the Nationals will start their initial invasion of the west at Cleveland, being due to play their first game on the frontier on Saturday, June 1.

Upon the showing Washington makes in its coming long home stay will depend in a great measure what its ultimate chances for a respectable berth in the American League race will be. It will then have measured strength with all the other seven clubs of the circuit and have afforded a pretty accurate line on what can be expected of it for the remaining three-quarters of the race to the wire in October.

It will largely devolve upon the pitchers whether the club will continue to trail along among the tallenders, or attain a place in the select society of the first division. To date the team has looked bad primarily because it has had to put up with a very weak brand of hurling. This and some stretched work allied accounts for the lowly position it occupies at the present time. Johnson, Harper, Shaw and Ayers form a quartet of moundsmen who measure up well in ability with any set in the circuit, and there is little question but that they will find themselves as likely to win as they are to lose in Washington. As for fielding, the Nationals at present are a bad last in the circuit, and it is not likely that they will improve in this respect. The team's batting is also weak, and it is not likely that they will improve in this respect. The team's pitching is also weak, and it is not likely that they will improve in this respect.

With the close of the game today Du Mont doffed his uniform to don it no more while the war lasts. Garrity will get through finally after tomorrow's exhibition against the Orioles at the Gentlemen's Driving Park in Baltimore, when Craft will do the hurling for the Nationals. Both Du Mont and Garrity are due to report at the Harland & Hollingsworth plant at the Bethlehem Steel Company at Steelton, Pa., Monday morning. Both will do their bit in turning out the base ball one day a week on the team representing the Delaware plant in the National League, which also will play teams at the plants at Sparrows Point, Md.; South Bethlehem, Pa.; and Fall River, Mass.

Manager Griffith is heartily in accord with the stand taken by President Dugan of the Brooklyn club in refusing to play a championship game with the Phillies tomorrow at the Harrison, N. J. plant, which is being managed by Billy Martin, former Georgetown University player and later on the pay roll of the Boston Braves for a couple of seasons. The Shipbuilders' League is scheduled to open next Saturday.

Griffith left Philadelphia immediately after the game with the Mackmen for Washington, where he has been called to open next Saturday.

HIGH SCHOOL NINES TO RESUME
GAMES TOMORROW AFTERNOON
Central Meets Western in Contest That
May Decide Title, and Eastern Plays
Technical in Second Half of Bill.

BY H. C. BYRD.

Tomorrow afternoon the high school baseball series will be resumed with two games, Western and Central meeting in the opening contest and Technical and Eastern in the second. Central and Western won the only games in which they appeared, while Eastern and Technical have one defeat charged against each. Eastern also has captured the long end of the score in one contest. The first game is to begin at 2 o'clock and will be staged at American League Park.

State's nine will astonish itself and win a game. It has played four contests so far this season and all of them have been played on the wrong side of the ledger. Two of the four games have been dropped after twelve innings of play and one after thirteen, and all three were pitched by a youngster who never went to the mound before this spring. State has actually thrown away all three of the extra-inning contests through "bones" the players doing almost impossible things at times.

Singles Two Down.

Lard hit a good ball off the third to a point, and Styles pushed his ball out over the hill to the right, with the fifth still between him and the goal. LARD BEATS STYLES
WITH STEADY GOLFChevy Chase Club Star Wins
Finals of Washington G. and
C. C., 6 and 5.

IN THE LEAD ALL THE WAY

Playing a brand of golf practically unbeatable, from tee to green the personification of steadiness, Allan Lard, the veteran player of the Chevy Chase Club, won the annual spring tournament of the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday, defeating Edward Styles, former Philadelphia crack, to the tune of 6 and 5. The story of the match is told in a few words, steadiness from tee to green, coupled with fine putting. Styles was far removed from the game which he displayed in the qualification round, when he tied the course record with a card of 69, but even at his best it is doubtful if he would have prevailed against the steadiness of the Chevy Chase veteran, the victor in many tournaments about Washington during the past fifteen years. Styles' game appeared to have lost its snap, this probably being attributable to the fact that for the past four days he had played three rounds each day. His iron shots, usually a strong department of his game, lost their sting and on four occasions he topped his tee shot.

Lard was going with the steadiness of the proverbial clock, his work through the green being of the best and his putting accuracy itself. The only slip came on the eighth hole, where after hitting a long tee shot, he missed his second shot, and was short with his run-up shot and missed a three-foot putt for a half. He was never down, winning the hole and a 4, when Styles, after a good tee shot, overpitched the green and ran into the trap to the left of the green. Lard hit a good ball down the middle of the hole, and the ball rolled half way down the hill, from which place he made a good putt to the far edge of the green. At this hole Styles missed his putt, and the ball rolled half way down the hill, from which place he made a good putt to the far edge of the green.
